

CAS Internship Opportunity

Looking for a summer internship that will allow you to demonstrate your best research, communication, and analytical skills? What if that position also allowed you to help leading companies solve complex international problems? If you are looking for that challenge, consider applying for a position with Global Access, a firm providing international expertise in several important arenas. If you would like to apply for this internship please attend an information session and meet the Chairman and CEO, Michael Macaluso, a Lehigh alum!

Michael Macaluso, '83U, began his career at Lehigh. Graduating with a BA in Philosophy, he blazed his path with an internship similar to this one. He made connections, used his Lehigh credentials, and now he wants to pay it forward to more College of Arts & Sciences students at Lehigh.

Dear Students,

Are you looking for a summer internship that will allow you to demonstrate your best research, communication, and analytical skills? What if that position also allowed you to help leading companies solve complex international problems? If you are looking for that challenge, consider applying for a position with Global Access, a firm providing international expertise in several important arenas.

Global Access is looking for College of Arts & Sciences Lehigh students who possess an inquisitive mind and excellent research and/or Excel skills. Students pursuing degrees in the Social Sciences and Humanities are strongly encouraged to apply. Students pursuing Pre-Law or those majoring in International Relations, Global Studies, Economics, Political Science, Sociology, Philosophy, History, and other related disciplines are especially encouraged to apply. Multi-cultural and bilingual applicants are also desired. Successful candidates will be paired with full time Global Access analysts and assist them in their full range of professional duties, including – but not limited to – cultural, legal, and financial research, as well as the preparation of visual and verbal presentations of their findings.

Global Access works in transformative sectors spanning agricultural technology, healthcare, sports and entertainment, and real estate, meeting their client's needs with a fast-paced, team approach. It is essential that interns be able to keep up with this pace and work both independently and as a member of a larger team as the situation requires. Global Access internships provide students with a 90 day opportunity to work with senior analysts across a range of activities starting with the Summer 2019 program. Participation on a part-time basis during the academic year is also possible. Depending on work performance and Global Access' evolving needs, full-time positions may be available to the very best interns upon graduation.

This internship requires a two-step application process. Interested students should complete the short pre-screening application and upload their resume. The Chairman and CEO of Global Access, Michael Macaluso, will personally interview the strongest applicants in November. Questions about this opportunity should be directed to incasugd@lehigh.edu.

If you would like to learn more about this internship or the work Global Access performs for its clients, please attend an information session with Chairman and CEO Michael Macaluso on Tuesday, October 9th from 2:30 – 4:00pm in 101 STEPS.
